New York, April 26.—The net changes in prices were generally trifling to-day, with advances, however, outnumbering declines. London bought about 15,000 shares and there was rather a cheerful tone to the early trading. Six months money was offered at 3½ on railroad stocks and at 4 on mixed collateral, and sterling exchange was steady at mixed and sterling exchange was steady at mixed and sterling exchange was steady at mixed collateral, and sterling exchange was steady at mixed provides and at 4 on mixed collateral, and sterling exchange was steady at mixed with interpolation of the crop advances noted some improvement, and as a consequence the Grangers were strong for a time, but on realizing left off with irregular thanges. The Cotton Markets.

New York, April 26.—The cotton market opened steady in tone, with prices I point lower to 2 higher. During the first few minutes more or less irregularity prevailed owing to conflicting rumors regarding the reception of some 20,000 May notices, which had been put in circulation by certain houses with the intention, it was understood, of depressing the market. Developments soon demonstrated that these tenders were being rapidly gathered in by the crowd, and as a natural result the houses sending out the notices made a scramble to recover as many as possible. This demand sent May up 8 points in short order, with the rest of the list following suit, although less rapidly and on a smaller scale.

By midday the market had settled into the old rut, and for the rest of the session ruled generally quiet, with room traders in control. Prices hovered within a point or two of the top notch on scattered demand from shorts, together with light new buying which drifted in from Wall street. The bear element, while satisfied with crop and weather news, were made uneasy by persistent rumors of a contemplated squeeze of August shorts, and by estimates for much smaller receipts at the larger interfor towns and ports. At the close the market was steady, with prices four to seven points higher.
